Dear Patron,

We are pleased to announce Rajgor's Auction 7 on Saturday, 13th July 2013 at The Ambassador, Churchgate, Mumbai from 5:00 pm onwards.

The Auction 7 is entitled "Absolute Auction".

The Absolute Auction is a novelty in Indian Numismatic Auctions and is introduced by the Rajgor's for the first time in India.

What is Absolute Auction?

In traditional auctions, each lot has an estimate called Lower Estimate. The Lower Estimate is a price offered for sale and the auction bidding generally starts from that amount. This Lower Estimate is approximately the market value of that item and it is the starting point of sale. Such a lot might have a Reserve. A "Reserve" is a price expectation of that item by the seller below which the item will not be sold. This Reserve may be the same as the Lower Estimate or it might be much above the Lower Estimate.

For example, Lower Estimate of a lot is Rs. 5,000 but its undisclosed Reserve may be Rs. 9,000. In such a situation, the bidding on that lot will start at Rs. 5,000 and there can be bids of up to say Rs. 7,500. But the lot will not be sold for Rs. 7,500 as its Reserve Price is Rs. 9,000. So the bidder who has bid for Rs. 7,500 will not get the item though he has a maximum bid of Rs. 7,500!

So a normal Traditional Auction has 4 points:

- 1) Each lot starts with a Lower Estimate which is close to the Market Value of that item.
- 2) Such a lot might have a Reserve. The Reserve can be the same as the Lower Estimate or can be higher also.
- 3) The Reserve is undisclosed to the Bidders.
- 4) Unless the Reserve is met during the Auction, the item will not be sold to the highest bidder.

In contrast to this, an Absolute Auction is totally different:

An Absolute Auction is defined as a "Complete and without Restriction Auction".

In the Absolute Auction the Lower Estimate is the starting Price of the Auction and such a lot "Does Not" have a Reserve on it. Also the Lower Estimate may be much below the Market Price of similar lots. And more importantly, all the items in the Absolute Auction, start with the "Minimal Possible Price".

Hence a bidder has full chances of getting that particular lot in the Absolute Auction for the minimum price and that too without fearing of a Reserve.

So to summarize an Absolute Auction:

- 1) Each lot starts with the "Minimal Possible Price" called Lower Estimate.
- 2) The Lower Estimate is priced much below the Market Value.
- 3) Such lots do not have a Reserve on them.
- 4) The bidder thus has an advantage of buying that lot at the "Minimal Possible Price" in the Absolute Auction if there are no bidders on that lot.

We are sure with the launching of "Rajgor's Absolute Auction", numismatic collectors will have a chance of buying coins and paper money of their interest for a song.

Do call us or write us for any further clarifications on the subject and ways to be a part of the Rajgor's Absolute Auctions.

We are constantly working hard to make your experience of buying from the Rajgor's Auctions a matter of ease, simplicity and joy.

The innovations of the Rajgor's Auctions do not stop here with the Absolute Auctions. Kindly be patient for a couple of more surprises in the near future and you will love to know more about it.

So till then, Happy Bidding in the Rajgor's Absolute Auction 7.

Keep in touch and grow more and more, because "Rajgor's care for your Money".

With kind regards

Dilip Rajgor
