When Shah Jahan fell ill in September 1657, a struggle for the throne started between his four sons - Dara Shikoh, Shah Shuja, Aurangzeb and Murad Baksh. Shuja immediately crowned himself the emperor and took imperial titles, November 1657. In his second attempt to win Delhi, the first being against his brother Dara Shikoh and later against Aurangzeb, Shuja marched again to the capital. A battle took place on 5 January 1659 at the Battle of Khajwa (Fatehpur district, Uttar Pradesh) where Shuja was defeated.

After his defeat, Shuja retreated towards Bengal. He was pursued by the imperial army under Mir Jumla. Shuja put up a good fight against them. However, he was finally defeated in the last battle in April 1660. After each defeat he had to face desertions in his own army, but he did not lose heart. He, rather, reorganised the army with renewed vigor. But when he was going to be surrounded at Tandah, and when he found that reorganization of the army was no longer possible, he decided to leave Bengal for good and take shelter in Arakan.

The silver and gold coins of Jaisalmer are divided into 3 types: In the name of Muhammad Shah, in the name of Victoria Queen, and in the name of Victoria Queen with an addition of Bird and Chhatra symbols. Coins of all the three types are known, apart from the regular round shape, in various shapes like square, hexagonal, octagonal, and irregular polygons. These odd shapes of Rupees and Mohurs were made by cutting from metal bars and then hammering into shapes required. All these Rupees of different shapes seem to have been struck from same set of dies. These coins are certainly not Nazarana coins but they might represent an Emergency Coinage. Weight of many of these coins of first 2 Types are also lesser as compared to other regular issues, because in 1860s, Thakur Kesari Singh, the then Diwan of Jaisalmer, tried to restore unsuccessfully the purity of Jaisalmeri coins by introducing coins with a weight of 10.53 g, and a silver content of 97.50%. However, the local merchants did not accept the new and light Rupees and the monetary reform was abandoned.
